

“Flourish”

I wanted to convey the idea of healing and reemergence from domestic violence experiences. The blossoming of strong and healthy women, men, children and families was an important element of the design.